

QUICK DEFEAT OF JAPAN OUTLINED

LAVAL ADMITS HE ASKED FOR NAZI VICTORY

DID IT TO FOOL GERMANS, VICHY CHIEF SAYS

BY REILMAN MORIN

Paris, Aug. 3. (AP)—Pierre Laval, the swarthy politician who has been called the "evil genius" of Vichy, testified at the Marshal Petain trial today and told a story of intrigue and secret agreement in the pre-war chancelleries of Europe while protesting his own innocence of any Fascist or Nazi trait.

In a four-hour statement amid the surcharged atmosphere of the tense courtroom, the man who is accused of using Petain as a foil while taking orders from Hitler as Vichy's premier made good his threat, "I will defend myself and I will accuse."

Jeers Disregarded
With a smooth flow of words which neither jeering nor laughter nor pointed questions could stop, the veteran figure of the white tie and black satchel tossed these developments into France's celebrated trial.

His disclosure that in 1935 he had concluded a secret military alliance binding France and Mussolini's Italy.

Introduced the names of the Prince of Wales, who was to become England's King Edward VIII, and his father, the late King George V; Sir Samuel Hoare, now Lord Templewood, who was the British foreign secretary; Anthony Eden and Stanley Baldwin, former British prime minister.

The declaration that the famous Montoire meeting of Petain and Hitler, at which the policy of collaboration was supposed to have been reached, resulted in "nothing at all."

But Laval also admitted, "I was where he overthrew the French republic," when he had pushed through the acts making Petain virtually dictator in 1940.

Collaboration Defended
He acknowledged he had made the statement "I desire a German victory," but that was to fool the Germans, he said.

And, answering a question concerning collaboration, he declared, "Who in his right mind would have thought otherwise than Germany would win the war?"

"This was all put into the record despite repeated pleas by Judge Paul Mongibeaux to 'Please remember this is the trial of Petain.'"

To some extent it also is his trial, Laval rejoined. At another point he defended his right to tell his own story with the sharp comment, "If what I am saying does not interest the court it certainly does interest the French people."

Brought through completely cleared corridors through a side door into the courtroom, which was strongly guarded, Laval did not look at Petain and the eyes of the two did not meet.

Turning immediately to the relations of France and Italy, Laval said "I struggled obstinately against this war. I felt our foreign policy was pulling us toward an abyss."

Laval, who was foreign minister in 1934 and 1935 and premier and foreign minister in 1936 at the time of the Ethiopian crisis, said he "played" every card in his hand "to prevent the coalition between Germany and Italy."

SECRET TREATY REVEALED

Paris, Aug. 3. (AP)—Salient points in Pierre Laval's testimony at the trial of Marshal Petain today were these:

1. That he concluded a secret military treaty between France and Italy in 1935.
2. That Great Britain made a naval agreement with Germany

Large-Scale Drive By Yank-Coached Chinese Due Soon

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Saturday, Aug. 4. (AP)—Chinese troops have captured Sining and closed within 12½ miles of Chuansien in a double-pronged drive toward the former Flying Tiger air field at Lingling, Chinese headquarters said early today.

The fresh advances toward Lingling, 370 miles southeast of Chungking, were disclosed after Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, predicted large-scale offensives soon by U. S.-trained Chinese forces, including paratroopers.

Wedemeyer said Chinese forces transferred from Burma "can be expected soon" to join the battle in China, and declared "I hope in the not too distant future we'll have some large-scale fighting, I am very optimistic about the future."

Sining, a Hunan province stronghold, was captured Friday morning by Chinese driving one prong of an attack toward Lingling, 55 miles farther to the southeast, the Chinese said. The enemy fled toward Tungan, midway between Sining and Lingling.

Meanwhile, other Chinese forces, heading toward Lingling from the southeast, struck to points 12½ and 10 miles west of Chuansien, stronghold on the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad 40 miles from Lingling. The Japanese rushed in reinforcements, and bitter fighting broke out, a communique said.

General Wedemeyer declared the Chinese troops from Burma, trained and equipped by Americans, were belligerent and cocky, and in good fighting spirit.

Chinese parachute troops have completed the first phase of their training at Kunning and recently have been jumping from planes, he continued.

Wedemeyer said the action behind enemy lines, and perhaps for long-range penetration.

He asserted "Briefly, the situation in this theater has been improving all along on all fronts."

BILLS AGAINST REICH REVISED

Small Nations Will Get Only Part Of Their Reparations

Washington, Aug. 3. (AP)—Europe's small countries will have to refigure their reparations bills against Germany, faced with virtual certainty they'll get only a small part of what they have asked. This was the interpretation placed by officials here today on the Potsdam communique.

Marshal Stalin, President Truman and Premier Attlee made it clear that German reparations will depend on what the Allies decide should be removed from the Reich, not on what claimants want.

The only total figure officially put forward thus far has been a Russian suggestion of $20,000,000. President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill declined at Yalta to accept that figure and it was merely put down for discussion.

The Netherlands have figured their needs at about five billion dollars and the French, it is reported, at 27 billion.

Even the former Axis partner, Italy, has looked into the damage done by the Nazis since Italy became a co-belligerent and her reported estimate is 20 billion.

The reparations commission is assigned to decide, within six months, the total that Germany can and shall give up. France is invited to join Britain, Russia and the United States for these talks. After these decisions have been made, the Allies will figure how to divide up the spoils.

Rationing Of Shoes May End By 1946

New York, Aug. 3. (AP)—L. E. Langston, executive vice president of the National Shoe Retailers association said today an industry-wide feeling that shoe rationing probably will be discontinued by the first of 1946 seemed justified by War Production Board estimates and the increase of supplies now in sight for civilian shoes.

"We are positive that there is not much chance to end rationing before that," Langston added.

TRIALS AT NUERNBERG

Nuernberg, Germany, Aug. 3. (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. counsel on the Allied war crimes commission, will establish headquarters here August 15 and trials of arch war criminals will begin in the Nuernberg court-house on September 1, a spokesman for the jurist said today.

"FRAMED," HE SAYS—Sentenced to life imprisonment in 1925 for the Indianapolis murder of Madge Oberholtzer, former Ku Klux Grand Dragon D. C. Stephenson, above, broke his 20-year silence to declare fear of mob violence kept him from testifying in his defense. He is awaiting action on a retrial petition, following his claim that he was "framed." (NEA Photo.)

JACKSON PRISON SETUP CHANGED

Separate Authority Set Up In Charge Of 1,200 Trustees

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 3. (AP)—Acting Warden Ralph E. Benson used his first full day in office at the state prison of Southern Michigan today to set up an administrative system under which the penitentiary will operate virtually as two institutions.

On authority of the state civil service commission, Benson announced the creation of a trusty department designed to operate separately from the rest of the prison and serve some 1,200 inmates independently.

The former warden at the state branch prison at Marquette, who was brought to the Southern Michigan institution, said the effect of the change would be that the prison would ultimately operate as two systems.

Final responsibility, however, still would rest with the prison warden.

Aside from the dismissals of former Warden Harry H. Jackson and six aides, this was the first major move since Attorney General John R. Dethmers' report on the prison in which he made serious charges of maladministration.

Benson promoted Lt. Carl Brayman to a captaincy and placed him in charge of the new trusty department, which is to be given more guard personnel and a full staff.

German Civilians Hang For Killing Defenseless Fliers

Munich, Aug. 3. (AP)—Two German civilians were sentenced to be hanged by a U. S. Third Army military commission today for the mob slaying of two Allied fliers near Frankfurt on the Main, Aug. 29, 1944.

Nikolaus Fachinger, 40, father of eight children, former police chief of Gross Gerau, and Hendrich Flauius, a resident of the village, were sentenced at a trial attended by about forty German civilians.

The victims of the attack were not identified, but were believed to have been Americans.

Flauus did not testify in his own defense, but the prosecution introduced a confession in his handwriting.

As members of the mob of about 200, his statement said, Fachinger handed him an iron bar and ordered him and another man to beat the fliers to death, after they had been brought into the privacy of a courtyard.

His companion, the confession continued, "acted like a wild animal" as he beat one of the fliers. "I beat the other one to death with five or six blows on the neck."

Pickets In Rubber Strike Convicted

Detroit, Aug. 3. (AP)—Fourteen United States Rubber Company pickets were convicted today by Circuit Judge George B. Murphy of contempt of court.

The 14, each of whom was given an alternative of a $100 fine or a 30-day jail sentence, were charged with defying a circuit court injunction prohibiting them from picketing.

The picketing took place during a work stoppage which for several days last month halted production of tires for army planes and made some 6,000 workers idle. The dispute involved the discharge of 12 employees.

Flat-Footed Youth Gets Back In Army For A Third Time

Fort Belvoir, Va., Aug. 3. (AP)—Twice discharged from the army because of flat feet, Pvt. Henry L. Norris is back in uniform again—and those arches are just as horizontal as ever.

The drawing North Carolina farm boy gave this chronology today of his experience with army camps, separation centers, and draft boards:

Back in 1939 and fresh from a Civilian Conservation Corps camp (remember them?) he enlisted at the age of 17, with his mother's permission.

Early in 1940, the doctors decided army shoes and Pvt. Norris' feet just couldn't get along. So out he went, on a medical discharge.

Ex-Private Norris then went to work in Fayetteville, N. C., got married and settled down to civilian life. Then in August, 1942, his draft board tapped him, despite his protests "to the woman at the draft board, but she said the medics could decide."

They did, a year and ten days later, when Pvt. Norris became Mr. Norris again.

Then he started getting word from his Fayetteville draft board again— "They said I was a job jumper. I wasn't. I just had to look around to find suitable work. But I got tired of their jabber. I didn't want them to put me down for that work-or-fight thing. So I volunteered."

Inducted again in May, 1945, Private-once-again Norris and his flat feet drilled for a week, and then he was told to be a cook. But he isn't too happy about that—he wants overseas duty.

WARD SEIZURES ARE IMMINENT

Mail Order Firm Again Defies Orders Sent Out By WLB

Washington, Aug. 3. (AP)—Government seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co. properties in seven more cities appeared imminent tonight as the firm bluntly told the War Labor Board it would continue to reject WLB orders.

The Army already is operating the Chicago headquarters of the mail order house as well as stores and warehouses in Detroit, St. Paul, Denver, Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Calif., and Jamaica, N. Y.

The board voted unanimously to refer the company's latest defiance to William H. Davis, director of economic stabilization. That action was taken a few minutes after the end of a hearing in which Stuart E. Ball, attorney, and John A. Barr, labor relations counsel for the firm, bitterly denounced the board's policies.

The company, announcing its refusal to heed board orders until they have court backing, asserted that the WLB, while escaping legal review on the plea that its rulings are only advisory, feeds the public "propaganda" that refusal to follow its directives is defiance of the government.

Referral to Davis usually is a step toward presidential intervention and seizure.

Far East Airmen Put Great Dent In Japanese Shipping

Manila, Saturday, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Far East air force and its attached units in the first seven months of this year destroyed or damaged 2,846,932 tons of enemy shipping and 1,375 enemy planes in the blockade of Japan, General MacArthur announced today.

These air forces, under MacArthur's overall command, have flown more than 150,000 sorties and dropped 100,000 tons of bombs.

Heavy bombers of the 13th Air Force braved adverse weather Thursday and hit "Takao," on the southwest coast of Formosa, causing fires and explosions which sent smoke 10,000 feet high.

Bombers of the same force also struck freight yards and supply installations at Tourane, French Indo-China, destroying many buildings and heavily damaging railway tracks, MacArthur said, while Seventh Fleet search planes damaged three enemy freighters and five coastal craft near Malaya.

The search planes operated within 30 miles of Singapore.

BATHERS LOSE SUITS

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 3. (AP)—Workmen draining the Gage park swimming pool today found ten vacant bathing suits resting on the bottom. Still unanswered, according to Harry Snyder, city park commissioner, is how the owners got out.

Mines Plug Every Jap Home Port As Invasion Impends

BY MURLIN SPENCER

Guam, Saturday, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Japanese, whose every home port now is blocked with air-sown mines, have lashed out at Okinawa and sunk one light American vessel and damaged another in air attacks on that island base where they contend an Allied invasion fleet is massing.

Admiral Nimitz announced today that the ship loss occurred on July 29, the first time in ten days that the enemy has made any offensive gesture at Okinawa, and the first time a ship has been hit there since June 22, when two light units were sunk and three were damaged.

MICHIGAN FACES GRAIN SPOILAGE

Shortage Of Box Cars Critical; Elevators Are Clogged

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 3. (AP)—Michigan faces the greatest grain spoilage in its history, Albert L. Riedel tonight told government and railroad officials, unless the railroad box car shortage is alleviated immediately.

Riedel, president of the Michigan Bean Shippers Association, informed officials of the Office of Defense Transportation and American Railway Association that the box car shortage was clogging grain elevators throughout the state.

Elevators in all Michigan growing sections, he said, will be filled by next Wednesday if the favorable weather continues.

Unless something is done, Riedel said, "we will have the largest pile of grain being stored outside of any time in Michigan agricultural history."

He said "county elevators are full or filling rapidly. Farm storage, the only storage that would be helpful in the present situation, is woefully lacking."

Muskegon Venison Blockade Case May Go To High Court

Muskegon, Mich., Aug. 3. (AP)—The "road blockade" arrest of three Muskegon men on July 22 may be decided by the state supreme court, Attorney Frank E. Wetmore announced today.

Wetmore said that he would appeal to circuit court the scheduled justice court sentencing of the trio, and would carry the case to the supreme court in event of an adverse verdict from the circuit bench.

Denying a motion for dismissal Thursday, Justice Joseph G. Segar announced he would pass sentence Monday. The three defendants, James W. Burns, 38, George Parish, 31, and Milford Reed, 34, offered no defense, basing their case entirely on the claim that the conservation men acted illegally.

The conservation officers, representing Muskegon, Mason and Newaygo counties, contended that they had received advance word that there was venison in the men's car, and this was sufficient to warrant legality of the road blockade.

The officers said they found the carcasses of two deer and a fawn in the car of the defendants.

Greenville Firm's Contract To Make Gliders Canceled

Greenville, Mich., Aug. 3. (AP)—Gibson Refrigerator Company announced today its contract to manufacture gliders for the army air forces would be cancelled on Aug. 20.

The cancellation will affect some 300 employees here and an additional 500 workers of subcontractors at Grand Rapids.

The company said it has requested the AAF to delay the cancellation order until Oct. 1 when civilian production of refrigerators and ranges will begin.

PRINCESS PROMOTED

He succeeds the King's uncle, the 71-year-old Earl of Athlone, whose term expired in June. Marshal Alexander was the hero of the Allied Mediterranean campaign.

ATTLEE FORMS LABOR CABINET

One Woman Minister, 54, Appointed; Seven Are Former Miners

London, Aug. 3. (AP)—Nineteen new ministers—seven of them once miners, another formerly a taxicab driver, still another once a Baptist lay preacher—stepped into Prime Minister Clement Attlee's new labor cabinet today.

Drawn from the heart of the Labor party, they represented a cross section of the British working class. The 19, one of them a woman, also included a former schoolteacher and former printer.

The brought Attlee's list of ministers to 25, with eight ministerial posts still to be filled.

The new appointments included John James Lawson, former miner, as secretary of state for war; Albert Victor Alexander as first lord of the admiralty, and Viscount Stangate as air secretary. This triumvirate will play a leading role in prosecution of the war against Japan.

The woman minister is red-haired, 54-year-old Ellen Wilkinson, named to the education portfolio. She is the second woman to attain cabinet rank in Britain.

Soldiers At Kilmer Cheer Betty Grable

Camp Kilmer, N. J., Aug. 3. (AP)—Eleven thousand GIs, jammed into every available spot in Kilmer Bowl, got a first-hand glimpse today of their favorite pin-up gal, Betty Grable.

Opening a continuous eight-hour USO show here, she sang a song and by popular and noisy demand responded with five more numbers.

Gene Krupa and his band followed the pin-up star with a solid hour of jumping jive and 75 USO performers were participating in the continuous show which winds up at 10 p. m. tonight.

Buses and ambulances transported 834 casualties from the station hospital to the bowl for the show.

ANGLO-AMERICAN PLAN REVEALED BY TRUMAN

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

Aboard U. S. S. Augusta With President Truman, Aug. 3. (AP)—Powerful new blows to speed the complete defeat of Japan and the liberation of Japanese-held territories were planned by the Anglo-American high commands at the Potsdam big three conference, it was disclosed officially today.

At the same time, President Truman told reporters aboard this homeward bound cruiser that he had made "no secret agreements of any kind" in the meeting with Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee. The president is preparing a radio report which he will make to the people of the United States soon after his return to Washington next week.

Russia Not Included

Disclosure of the Anglo-American military talks was made jointly aboard the Augusta and in London where Prime Minister Attlee has already returned. Russia did not participate in this announcement since Russia is not a party to the war against Japan.

The president and prime minister, their statement said, approved various undisclosed proposals made by British and American chiefs of staff. The military leaders discussed a "reallocation of areas and commands in the Southwest Pacific and Southeast Asia areas and consideration was given to the employment in the war against Japan of forces of the other Allied nations that are at war with Japan."

(In Washington, it is expected that Lord Louis Mountbatten, the British commander in Southeast Asia, will be given a greatly enlarged command area embracing the bulk of the territory over which General Douglas MacArthur originally had control. That is the area of the Southwest Pacific which includes Australia, the Solomon Islands and the Dutch East Indies.

Dutch To Help

Washington also expects that the troops of other nations at war with Japan, particularly Dutch troops, will be used when and where they can in these liberation battles and presumably this was one of the points covered by the Attlee-Truman announcement.)

(These disclosures rounded out public information on the Potsdam talks, on which the first report dealing almost exclusively with political decisions affecting Europe, was made yesterday.)

(That communique, released jointly by the president, the prime minister and Generalissimo Stalin, said of military questions only that they were discussed. Whether they concerned Russian participation in the Pacific-Asiatic war was not divulged.)

Those coming home with the president on the Augusta include Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Judge Samuel I. Ros-

Tiger Righthander Wants To Pitch Long Enough
To Win 200 Games

BY BUS HAM

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—At 38, Tommy Bridges has one particular ambition: he wants to return to the big leagues at least long enough to win eight more games, bringing his grand total to 200.

Before his induction into the army 20 months ago, the graying Detroit righthander won 192 games for the Detroit Tigers with whom he spent 14 consecutive seasons.

"I haven't any idea how much longer I'll be in service, but when I get out I'd like to join the select circle of 200-game winners," he said.

The success of two other baseball oldsters, Hank Greenberg of Detroit and Red Ruffing of New York's Yankees, has given Bridges renewed hope that he can pick up where he left off, as they did, after being discharged.

Still trim at about his normal weight of 160 pounds, this star of three world series, 1934, 1935 and 1940 (four won, one lost, and two All-Star games, gets in a little baseball as pitcher-outfielder for the Office of Strategic Services.

In half a dozen pitching appearances, he has not allowed a single earned run and recently struck out 19 batters in nine innings.

He says baseball's return in regard to servicemen returning to the game is "just swell."

"They start us in at the salary we were making when we left and give us 60 days in which to demonstrate that we still can play major league ball," he said. "We couldn't ask for a fairer deal."

Borowy May Lose
His 2-B In Draft

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 3. (AP)—The Bloomfield (N. J.) draft board of Henry (Hank) Borowy, baseball pitcher traded to the Chicago Cubs by the New York Yankees last week for a reported $100,000 in cash and players, was directed today by state selective service headquarters to reclassify the slim righthander.

Colonel Edgar N. Bloomer, New Jersey selective service director, in making known the directive, said an investigation had disclosed that the 29-year-old Borowy was not entitled to the 2-B classification he now holds. The 2-B classification is given to essential war workers, Bloomer added.

"Borowy is not entitled to a 2-B classification," he said. "It will be up to the local board to decide whether he should be shifted into 1-A or 2-A."

Borowy was placed in 2-B by his draft board last winter while he was employed at the Eastern Tool and Manufacturing company of Bloomfield.

He quit the Bloomfield concern in March to enter spring training with the Yankees at Atlantic City and has been playing baseball since.

Selective service headquarters had disclosed on Wednesday that it was investigating Borowy's case because of a question raised over whether he was entitled to a 2-B classification.

Colored Smoke Aids
In Identifying Japs

Washington—Dead men may still tell tales, in mopping-up operations on islands wrested from Japanese control. They do it through rainbow-colored stains on their clothing or skins, the Army's Chemical Warfare Service has disclosed.

It is a new application of the grenade-like "candles" that pour out great volumes of bright-hued smoke, originally devised for the identification of tanks or troops in the open to friendly airplanes overhead, and for other signaling purposes. The smokes come in the six principal rainbow colors, from red to violet, as well as in white and black.

When an American mopping-up patrol locates a cave system full of hold-out Japs, they heave in some smoke candles of an agreed-on color. The next cave complex will be smoked with another color. Later, when the Japs are killed or captured in the open, the tinge of the smoke still clinging to them will tell where they come from.

Although these colored smokes are non-poisonous, the Japs seem to be very much afraid of them.

The president told reporters that he has intended all along for the American people to be fully informed on agreements worked out at his first big three meeting and it was in this connection that he gave assurances that "there are no secret agreements of any kind" in the decisions reached.

Peace Council Formed

(This evidently does not cover military decisions which always are kept secret until they are translated into action against the enemy.)

The president is represented as having gone into the Potsdam conference with a series of proposals for which he sought British and Russian acceptance. Among these the establishment of a council of foreign ministers to write a peace for Europe was a primary objective.

The council will have its first session in London by September 1. It is to be composed of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia, China and France, assuming the latter two agree to join as the big three invited them to do.

Stamp Collectors—The August meeting of the Escanaba Philatelic society will be held at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon at the city hall. Roland Baldwin, chairman of the stamps-for-veterans committee, requests that donations of stamps for the veterans hospitals be brought to this meeting so that another shipment may be made during the coming week.

Sammy Sneed of Hot Springs, Va., three times winner of the event, was virtually eliminated with a 78 for a 152.

TEST ELEVATED WATER STORAGE

New Tank In Use Soon; Old Engines, Pumps Will Be Sold

Escanaba's new elevated water storage tank yesterday was filled for the first time, and the test revealed one small leak which required that the 500,000 gallons of water be drained and the leak closed, City Engineer A. V. Aronson said yesterday.

It is expected that the tank will be in use by the end of August, which will provide the city water system with a half-million-gallon reserve at constant pressure. Water from the city's four deep wells will be pumped into the elevated tank during the night hours when the load is low, and when the cost of electricity for pumping is at the off-peak low.

With the operation of the elevated water storage tank the city will dispose of some of the old equipment formerly used in the water pumping station at Sand Point. In its meeting Thursday night the council authorized the sale of the following:

One Skinner uniflow engine, 250 kilowatt, now used in the steam plant as an auxiliary to generate electricity in the event of power failure.

Two Scotch Marine boilers, 250 horsepower capacity each, which were in the water pumping station. They are about 25 years old.

One Allis Chalmers steam engine and water pump with a four million gallon capacity.

30 LIBRARIANS ATTEND COURSE

Adult Education Theme Of Workshop Program At Chatham

More than thirty librarians attended the vocational workshop program held at Camp Shaw in Chatham this week under the sponsorship of the state board of libraries and the state board of control for vocational education. The short course closed Saturday.

How the libraries can cooperate in the adult education program was discussed by Mrs. Loretta D. Fyan, state librarian of the Michigan State Library, and Charles L. Folio, director of the Escanaba adult education program and a member of the Carnegie public library board. Mrs. Fyan stated that, while although the libraries should not engage in actual teaching, they can assist the program by providing important reading material. Mr. Folio reviewed the adult education activities in Escanaba, and told how the local library was used for lectures on literary topics and to provide books and magazines for group discussion projects.

Another feature of Friday's program was a lecture by Prof. Albert A. Applegate, head of the department of journalism, Michigan State College, who explained the fundamentals of news writing and their application to library news reporting.

Other members of the faculty were: Helen M. Clark, assistant state librarian, Michigan State College; Mrs. Dorothy Graves and Mrs. Zora Kemp Williams, Upper Peninsula office, Michigan State Library; Mrs. Dorothy Hagerman, Grand Rapids; Mrs. Inez Musson, Hartland; Helen Noyes, Marquette; Mrs. Edna Linzey Paulson, Ramsay; Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, Escanaba.

Students were: Mary Bollero, Negaunee; Mrs. V. May Bristol, Amasa; Audry Buchmiller, Gladstone; Mrs. Dorothy Graves, Iron Mountain; Mrs. Mebel Collins, Wakefield; Euleime L. Cozine, Ludington; Mrs. Vall Dunstan, Painesdale; Mrs. Anna I. Ereon, Ludington; Ethel Erickson, Ramsay; Elizabeth Jacobson, Escanaba; Mrs. Lillian R. Robert G. Olson Is Junior Vice Comdr. Of Disabled Vets

Robert G. Olson, 200 North Tenth street, disabled veteran of World War II, was elected junior vice commander of Escanaba chapter No. 24, Disabled American Veterans, at the regular meeting held at Roy Baldwin's cottage on Thursday night. He succeeds Isadore Frisk, who has moved to Green Bay.

Mr. Olson served with the armed forces four and a half years, and fought in the Pacific war zone 33 months. He was seriously wounded three times.

Mr. Olson also has been appointed service officer of the Escanaba chapter, and recently attended the D. A. V. service officers school in Grand Rapids. He will serve every Saturday at the rationing board office to assist members of the armed forces in obtaining their rationing allotments.

BEAUDOIN AT BAT—Cliff Beaudoin, Sr., his cigar clenched between his teeth, warms up to hit a homer in the softball game between the Press day crew and night crew at the annual Daily Press picnic held at Pioneer Trail park last Sunday. Rene Sabourin is catching. Al Schmeltzer, second from left, kept score, which was 19-18 in favor of the night crew.

GIRLS' RACE was won by Dolly Perryman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perryman. Janice Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carlson, tripped and fell as she neared the finish line. Contests and races were held for boys and girls of all ages. The picnic was attended by approximately 200 members of Press employees' families.

BASEBALL THROWING for distance was a popular contest among the girls. Here Marilyn Perryman winds up, and her sister, Billy Ann, awaits her turn.

CROPS FAIR BUT RAIN IS NEEDED

Potato Prospects Good; Grain, Pasture Hit By Dry Period

While potatoes and garden crops look good, grain, pastures and corn have been hit by the dry weather and all crops need moisture in the Delta county area, E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, said yesterday.

There is prospect of a good potato crop in the county if rain comes soon, Wenner said. In some places the leaves of the potato plants have started to roll a little at the bottom, a condition caused by lack of moisture.

Grain is ripening fast because of the hot sun and wind, and the crop is expected to be light this year.

The second hay crop will be much lighter than the first, which was heavy, unless there is more rain soon, the county agent reported.

Pastures are drying out and are in poor condition. This is reflected in a decrease in milk production, which is down now and will continue to drop unless the pasture improves, Wenner said the condition would not be so bad if county farmers had prepared hay silage earlier in the year for just such a condition.

Corn, generally considered a minor crop in the county, is poor this year. Gardens look good throughout the county but as with other crops rain is needed if they are to produce well.

The apple orchards in the county have a fair "set" of apples this year, but because few farmers protect the crop with sprays the

Daytime Watering Best For Gardens

Lansing. (AP)—Contrary to popular belief, it is better to sprinkle victory garden plants during the heat of the day than in the evening, Paul Krone, Michigan State college garden specialist, declared. "Sprinkling during the day will cool the plants and reduce the amount of water they give off," he said, "and also will help reduce wilting on some of the more tender plants."

The specialist pointed out evening sprinkling often caused the leaves to remain moist over night, increasing the possibility of leaf spot diseases and mildews.

Report on Potsdam

JUDGING from what information was released the Big Three conference at Potsdam devoted the major portion of its time to the problems of de-Nazifying and de-militarizing a defeated Germany so that she would never again threaten the peace of the world. There was the hint, however, the question of Russia's role in the war against Japan was also discussed, for brief mention was made in the 6,000-word report that "military matters of common interest" were considered.

Most encouraging aspect of the tri-partite conference is the fact that the United States, Great Britain and Russia were able to harmoniously tackle the monumental problems that now present themselves. It gives hope that much of the suspicion and misunderstanding that has existed between the major powers may be erased by frank discussion of their mutual problems around the conference table.

Agreement has been reached for destroying Germany's potential for making war in the future. Steps will be taken to prevent her heavy industries from making aircraft, guns, submarines and other arms that could be put into the hands of another Hitler for spreading destruction and misery throughout the world. The German people will not be slaves of their conquerors, however, but will be given an opportunity to build a new Germany on democratic and peaceful lines.

That the democratic ideal of individual freedom will be fostered is indicated by the forthright action taken with regard to dictator-controlled Spain. The Potsdam conference communique plainly stated the United Nations would not accept any application for membership from Spain, as long it is ruled by government that rose to power through military aid furnished by the Axis. Franco's government is labeled as a Fascist regime, and as such is not entitled to a place among the family of peace-seeking nations.

An Encouraging Trend

REAL estate has been moving fast at Garth point in recent months, indicating that the head of Little Bay de Noc will be a busy summer resort community after the war.

Residents of Delta county, Lower Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Illinois have purchased lots at Garth point, and are planning to build summer cottages there as soon as construction materials are available. These real estate transactions have occurred since a Houghton Lake resort operator purchased a one-mile frontage above Garth point for recreational development. If the trend continues, the entire shore to Stonington point will some day have a line of cottages.

Building of private cottages and commercial resorts will bring many new vacationists to Delta county in the postwar summers. All this means new money in the community. This is the kind of resort development all those interested in the tourist business have been long waiting for.

Russia Plans Big Navy

SECTIONS from the lengthy communique, issued upon the conclusion of the Potsdam conference, confirm the belief that Russia made its expected demands for better access to the world's sea routes.

The Soviet union proposed that, pending final determination of territorial boundaries, Russia should have a western frontier running from the eastern shore of the bay of Danzig to the meeting point of the frontiers of Lithuania, the Polish Republic and East Prussia. Russia also wants her share of the war and merchant ships surrendered by a defeated Germany.

Russia plans a larger navy; a three-sea navy, in fact, with fleets in the Baltic and Black seas and in the Sea of Japan. All three seas, far separated from each other, are also separated from the oceans by narrow passageway which might prevent the Soviet Union from having full use of her planned warships.

The USSR has an important naval base on the Gulf of Finland relatively near Leningrad. It is ice-bound in winter. In acquiring the Baltic states as a result of the war, it acquires several good harbors on the Baltic itself, and these are open in all but the most severe winters. Several are suitable for naval bases.

The Black sea is separated from the Aegean and Mediterranean by the narrow waterway that separates Turkey-in-Europe from Turkey-in-Asia, the Dardanelles-Marmara-Bosporus passageway, now controlled by Turkey. If opened to Russian warships, a Black sea fleet would have access to the Mediterranean, and to the Atlantic by way of Gibraltar and to the Indian ocean by way of the Suez canal and the Red sea.

The deepwater Bosporus, adjacent to the Black sea, is 18 miles long and only a half mile wide at its narrowest point. The sea of Marmara comes next, and is 170 miles long and some 50 miles wide. Then to the south is the Dardanelles, a strait 47 miles long, and about four miles in width.

The great port of the Soviet Union in Siberian waters is Vladivostok on the northwest coast of the Japan sea. This 700-mile-wide oval body of water is enclosed on the south and east by the Japanese mainland islands, Honshu and Hokkaido. Outlets to the East China sea to the south are Korea and Tsushima straits, waters that Japan was able to control in the past. Other outlets are the narrow straits between Honshu and Hokkaido, and north of Hokkaido between it and Sakhalin island. Then there is the Soviet-controlled outlet to the north by way of the Tatar gulf and the narrow strait between Sakhalin and the mainland, but this is frequently ice-bound in the severe winter weather.

There will be no stopping the modern Russia from achieving a much greater maritime position than she has held in the past. Great Britain, which has long considered herself the "mistress of the seas," probably will not relish the new competition in its traditional field, but there will be no preventing it. The new Russia has become a dominant world power.

German War Dead

LACKING confidence in the authenticity of German assertions that Nazi war dead did not exceed 4,000,000, the Allies, for purposes of their own, will make a new count.

German figures on total casualties in the armed forces are placed at 14,000,000, of which fewer than one-fourth are reported to have lost their lives. In view of the length of the war, and the terrific punishment suffered in Russia and on the Western Front, the Allies suspect that the figures have been pared.

German figures contain further discrepancies in number of civilian dead. Berlin has pretended only 100,000 lost their lives in the tremendous bombing of Germany. Great Britain admits 60,000 Englishmen were killed on home soil by enemy action. The two figures can not be reconciled, and the Allies are determined to learn the truth.

Even multiplied five times, which Allied officials say would be nearer the truth, it would seem blanket bombing of a nation does not take as disastrous a toll of civilians as might be supposed. When it recalled great cities were destroyed, metropolitan areas containing millions of inhabitants wiped out, it hardly seems possible that only half a million died.

There must be some reason for German attempts to conceal the extent of Nazi losses. It may be reluctance to admit to the world how utter was German defeat. But the truth will become known. The Allies are determined on that score.

MICHIGAN'S PRISON SCANDAL

(Milwaukee Journal)

The report of Atty. Gen. John R. Dethmers on conditions in the southern Michigan prison at Jackson would, if it came from a less authoritative source, be hard to believe.

It is almost inconceivable that, in any state which pretends to law and order, murderers, rapists and robbers should have free run of a prison and be permitted to attend wild parties on the outside. It is almost inconceivable that a prison could be practically given over to gambling, drinking and prostitution.

That, however, is the story released from Lansing. For a price, it appears, almost anything could be done by the favored "big shots" at Jackson, within or without the walls.

The situation at Jackson evidently came because politics rather than penology was in control. Under similar circumstances similar situations have developed in prisons elsewhere. Political control usually means a dropping of both the old theories of punishment and the newer programs of rehabilitation. The prison becomes a social club, managed for the "important" prisoners at the expense of the small fry.

One regrettable result of such revelations as have come from Jackson is that they tend to arouse in the public the demand that all "nonsense" about reform be dropped and that there be a return to the old retributive system where punishment was the sole objective. It may be hoped that Michigan will not make this mistake while correcting what is now a terrible situation.

Over the years the punishment idea showed itself ineffective in curing law violators or in deterring from crime others disposed to take a chance. The rehabilitation idea, though still in its infancy, has produced results in thousands of cases.

The Jackson story merely shows that, where weak amateurs undertake a job calling for professional background and experience, disaster is sure to come. When a prison is involved and the amateurs are politicians, the scandal is likely to be particularly odorous.

Some juries could be hung and they'd never be missed.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Representatives of 44 Nations comprising UNRRA will meet in London next Tuesday for the third general conference of that unhappy international relief agency. A day or two ago, the first representative of UNRRA reached Warsaw to oversee distribution of supplies of the Poles.

The timing on that may have been pure coincidence. But the fact remains that UNRRA has been trying to get an official delegation into Poland for nine months.

UNRRA first named an American mission to Poland headed by John P. Gregg, who had served in Herbert Hoover's relief administration after the last war. Gregg and the members of his party took all their inoculations and were ready to go. They could never get the necessary Russian transit visas.

LEHMAN DENIED VISA—

Herbert Lehman, UNRRA's administrator, tried to go to Poland. From London he announced he was on his way. He never got a visa.

Now an UNRRA delegation reaches Warsaw a few days before the council is to meet. One of the most important items before the council is Russia's request for $700,000,000 in relief supplies. The UNRRA delegation to Warsaw is headed by a Russian, M. A. Menshikov, who has been serving with UNRRA since 1943. On the delegation area one Czech, one Britisher, one Canadian and six Americans. Among the Americans are three who got ready to go with Gregg nine months ago. These Americans are specialists in public health, in agriculture, nutrition and so on.

For more reasons than one, the Russian request for $700,000,000 is the $64 question that the UNRRA council will have to try to answer. To begin with, UNRRA lacks money, supplies and the authority it needs to deal with the relief problem in shattered Europe.

The authorized budget is $2,500,000,000, of which only part has been received from the member nations. The U. S. is down for a contribution of $1,350,000,000, of which $793,000,000 has been made available. You have to measure this alongside relief estimates that total $913,000,000 for the six countries—Albania, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Italy, Yugoslavia and Poland—where UNRRA is authorized to operate.

—RUSSIAN DEMAND SURPRISES—

The Russian request came as a surprise—maybe shock is the word—to many people here and especially to the state department, which had had no advance warning. It had been assumed that Russia would not come in with a relief request.

There seemed to be evidence that the Soviets could swing the load in their part of the world. They had made much in radio propaganda of their contributions of wheat and other foodstuffs to their neighbors, and especially to Poland. Furthermore, they were busy drawing up two-way trade treaties that seemed to exclude the United States from that part of the world.

It seems to me that UNRRA is going to have to get a lot of facts about this whole eastern European picture. A little more light would help all around.

If Russia needs relief in the amount of $700,000,000—and after going through such a hideous war, that is more than possible—then careful investigation should establish it beyond any doubt. UNRRA's basic charter provides for such investigation in the country that requests the relief. It is a routine being carried out in the countries now receiving help.

This isn't the only tough one that the UNRRA council will have to crack. The beginnings of a controversy are developing around the treatment of displaced persons by UNRRA.

According to reports to Washington, the Russians are saying that no help should go to those who refuse to return to their home countries. That would mean that displaced Poles, Latvians, Lithuanians and so on who are afraid to go back home because of Soviet domination in eastern Europe would be told to starve.

UNRRA has a clear-cut policy that says relief shall not be used for any political end, whether of the left or the right. Greece is another problem. Reports from there say that rightists are withholding help from the left.

The responsible men who direct UNRRA must assure the world that relief is not political and partisan, but humanitarian.

Please make sure that "desperado" Has the long A of "tornado." And "tomato" with a "may" is better choice.

Also note that "alma mater" Has the A sound as in "crater." Oh, careful speech will make the ears rejoice!

Now, in "patronize" the "patron" Sounds much nicer rhymed with "matron." (One would never start the latter with a "mat.")

And if we forget it's "status" Minister Webster will berate us. (Oh, from "apparatus" please leave out the "rat.")

We should know that "aviator" Clearly rhymes with "radiator." And that "ultimatum" always has a "may." An important word is "papel." Don't say "pap"—it rhymes with "maple." And thus endeth, friends, the lesson for today.

Q. We have almost come to blows over the correctness of "in our midst." I say it's wrong.

A. The expression is a corruption of a phrase in Matthew xviii, 20: "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

LOST LABOR—One of the most striking arguments for an over-all Great Lakes uniform commercial fishing code is the recent announcement that illegal fishing nets seized in Michigan waters by the conservation department since 1929 would stretch from Chicago to the Straits of Mackinac.

There is a lot of wasted manpower, food and money involved in that report from Lansing. And in these war years that is practically inexcusable.

Because the seized nets are illegal when set in Michigan waters does not always mean they are illegal in other states. There is, first, the cost of labor and materials in making nets which can be seized and taken out of production. Second, there is the loss of labor in setting such nets and then having them confiscated. Third, there is the high cost of enforcing regulations which vary in the waters of the Great Lakes from one state to another.

It is true and therefore accepted without argument that fishing regulations are necessary. It is equally true and therefore inescapable that until commercial fishing regulations are uniform for all areas of the Great Lakes, enforcement must be a muddled and wasteful effort.

RED CROSS GIRL—From Marseille, France, through the American Red Cross, comes a story which will interest Escanaba readers. The story follows:

MARSEILLE—Elsie Karas was receiving a visitor from Escanaba. Nothing unusual about a Red Cross girl meeting a man from her home town, but this meeting told a poignant story.

In the schoolyard memories of every American overseas there is usually a neighborhood store. You started out on penny-apiece lollypops and graduated to ice cream.

On south Eleventh street in Escanaba, Michigan, there's just such a place, run by Mrs. Frank Karas. She takes more than a storekeeper's interest in her former patrons, and her daughter Elsie Karas, American Red Cross club worker in France, helps out.

"I'm taking care of my mother's customers overseas," says Elsie, who estimates that she has met over forty men from her hometown since she began her Red Cross service. "There were six boys in one outfit. My mother writes them all to look me up. Take Johnny here," she smiled, introducing her current visitor, Pfc. John Curran, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Curran lives over at 219 N. 12th St. in Escanaba. "He saw my name in the Marseille issue of Stars and Stripes newspaper, and hitched a ride over from where he's stationed to see me. He graduated from the store, too."

Johnny was quick to recall Mrs. Karas' trick of putting a little butterscotch syrup in the bottom of ice cream cones, which tasted delicious and made the last mouthful the best.

It's easy to see such memories mean a lot to men overseas. They represent home, and all it stands for, and Mrs. Karas with her friendly interest has created a strong link with that memory. She may well be proud of her graduates, and she has reason also to be proud of her daughter.

Overseas for twenty months, Elsie has served in North Ireland and England, and in France, in Paris, Epinal, Dijon, and now in

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Three disappointed Soviet airmen, who had attempted to fly nonstop from Moscow to San Francisco were forced to turn back at Leningrad when they had oil line difficulties on the 6,000 mile hop.

a Marseille staging area Red Cross club, where she is in charge of programs for men destined for the Pacific.

After leaving Escanaba high school, she studied at Northern State Teachers' College, Marquette, Michigan, and before joining the Red Cross, was music supervisor in grade schools at Muskegon Heights, Michigan.

The Karas family has been recorded in Louis Adamic's "From Many Lands," as an immigrant family from Czechoslovakia who settled in the Middle West and became representative Americans.

"We're just an average family," Elsie tells you modestly. Average they are, with Elsie serving in the Red Cross and brother Bill a lieutenant colonel in the medical corps, now home after three years in North Africa, England and Italy.

Because her parents came from Czechoslovakia, near the town of Lidice which the Germans wiped off the map, Elsie naturally is anxious to visit that country and trace her relatives.

Meanwhile, she counts as her most outstanding experience with the American Red Cross overseas, "The number of times I have met soldiers from my hometown on different assignments. Some of the boys I met before they'd gone through battle, and helping them has given me my greatest thrill in Red Cross service."

ANOTHER GUEST—For your entertainment this coming week, while The Bugler is on vacation, another guest columnist has been added to the list previously announced. He is George Victor Martin, author of "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" and other literary pieces. George is making his home at Nahma for the summer—perhaps for a longer time. His story has been "moved" by MGM with Margaret O'Brien, Jackie Jenkins and Edward G. Robinson and it to be released soon.

Q. Is the Secretary of War or Navy empowered to make an allotment of pay to a landlord?

A. The Secretary of War or Navy may prescribe and order an allotment, in a reasonable proportion, for the discharge of rent of promises occupied by the wife, children, or other dependents of a person in service.

Q. After a veteran has been discharged from the service, how may he secure information about his insurance?

A. By writing to the Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. C. He should give his first name, and last name in full, and should also state his insurance certificate or policy number and his service serial number or numbers. If his certificate or policy number is not known, to insure proper identification there should also be furnished the insured's rank, rating, or grade, and organization at the time of original application for insurance, his date of separation from service and his date of birth.

Of General Interest

Q. In tennis, should a ball become broken through hitting, shall a let be called?

A. Yes.

Q. When and where did Robert Rogers, the noted Indian fighter, die, and where was he buried?

A. He died May 18, 1795, in a cheap lodging-house in London, England, and was buried at St. Mary, Newington.

Q. Why was the portrait of De Witt Clinton chosen for Internal Revenue stamps on cigarettes?

A. Several years ago, the late President Roosevelt inquired about this stamp, and the U. S. Treasury Department did some research on it. Nothing definite was learned, however, although several far-fetched stories were discovered. The most likely one was that the first Clinton stamps were supposedly issued in 1876, which would have been the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the Erie Canal, which Clinton sponsored.

Of Interest to Women

Q. Is it still proper to serve the hostess first at a dinner in one's home?

A. The custom of serving the hostess first dates back to medieval times when the donor tasted food first to prove it unpoisoned. Today the woman guest of honor is usually served first. Both forms are correct, though it certainly is more courteous to serve the guest first.

Q. Does the weight of the human body increase after a hearty meal?

A. There is a slight increase, but the body, by throwing off heat perspiration, etc., soon returns to normal weight.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—G. I.'s in the American Army of Occupation for Germany will not be able to bring their wives to Europe, despite the fact that some of them have been separated from their families for two and three years.

President Truman made this very clear in his recent interview with the Stars and Stripes, and, because of tight transportation, this ruling seems logical.

But apparently the rule won't apply to generals. Almost simultaneously with Truman's statement, it became known that the wife of Gen. Robert A. McClure, head of the Army's Psychological Warfare Division, was able to go to Europe.

Furthermore, General McClure's wife was transported across the Atlantic at the taxpayers' expense—as a clerk for the Office of War Information.

General McClure works in close and intimate cooperation with OWI.

An official cable hiring Mrs. McClure as an OWI clerk follows: "Effective commencing July 15, Marjory McClure will be paid $75 every 28 days at post. Balance of her base pay of $200 plus overtime minus usual deductions will be paid power of Attorney Unistates. Annual living allowance effective on arrival, $1980."

Accordingly, Mrs. McClure departed for Europe on July 15.

This neat little scheme for generals to get what G. I.'s can't was set in motion at the very same time OWI was laying off clerks and other personnel, due to a drastic cut in funds by Congress. So, while some clerks are fired, generals' wives are hired.

NOTE—OWI officials state that Mrs. McClure will serve as a receptionist in Paris; that she has ability in meeting people; and that they have long needed someone in Paris who could act in this capacity.

—NO DUKE CHURCHILL—

When Winston Churchill turned down a knighthood this week, his son Randolph Churchill probably heaved a big sigh of relief.

For it meant that his father, in turning down this lesser honor, probably would not accept a dukedom or any other high reward. Should the elder Churchill accept a peerage, he would move into the house of Lords, which would mean that his son Randolph, upon his father's death, automatically would become a Lord, thereby forfeiting the chance of a fighting political career as a commoner.

To inherit a title is the last thing young Churchill wants. His future career lies in the House of Commons, like his father.

Knowing his son's ambition, the Prime Minister used to hold a sword of damocles over Randolph's head. When the Mercurial Randolph got out of hand, his father half-jokingly would warn:

"Tut, tut. Be careful or I'll take a peerage."

—BATTLE OVER STEEL—

One of the hottest fights in the whole hot history of the war production board has been raging backstage regarding the future allocation of steel to industry.

It is a fight affecting almost every business in the country—large and small—and if the big industry boys get their way, civilian manufacturers will get less material even than during the third quarter of this year, when we were still fighting a two-front war.

The fight is over how sheet steel shall be allocated.

Basically, this boils down to whether the big automobile companies will get it all, or whether other manufacturers will be given at least a little.

It is exactly the same fight, in reverse, which occurred before Pearl Harbor. At that time, the automobile industry was using up most of the sheet steel. War production was held up until their output could be curtailed, and the auto boys pulled all sorts of wires to keep on producing cars.

Now, the same wires are being pulled to let steel be completely free, and not allocated to anyone. This is just another way of saying that the automobile companies will get it all, because they are the biggest peacetime buyers of steel and the steel companies naturally like to please their best customers.

—CUPID IN CONGRESS—

Cupid has flown in the window of 57-year-old bachelor Congressman Alexander Resa of Chicago. In fact, 25 years ago the same cupid flew in Resa's window, and flew out again. Then he was not a congressman and cupid didn't linger. Now he is. Thereby hangs a story.

Twenty-five years ago, Resa, a struggling young law clerk and teacher at the John Marshall Law School, was paying court to Irene Deegan of Chicago. However, it looked as if he would never be able to support a wife. They drifted apart.

Then last year, Resa ran on the Democratic ticket against GOP Congressman Charles Dewey, the man who became famous for championing Montgomery Ward in its fight with the government. Apparently Charles Dewey was on the unpopular side of that fight, for he lost, and Resa went to Congress.

About that time, the new congressman received a note of congratulations. It was signed "Irene Deegan." He replied. They got re-acquainted. On their first date, Resa found that Irene, during all those 25 years, had never married. Neither had he.

So now Miss Deegan will become Mrs. Congressman Alexander J. Resa sometime before October 8.

Give a man enough rope and he'll smoke himself to death.

If you acquire a bald head, keep it under your hat.

Salt Tablets Help To Build Vitality

When you perspire freely and feel fatigued, drowsy or dizzy, the trouble may be due to a salt deficiency in your system.

Home canners who are apt to be working all day now in hot kitchens, or people whose jobs keep them out of doors under pelting sun, are apt to lose salt faster than it is replaced by normal food intake.

How to make up the loss? Take salt tablets with water. According to medical experiments conducted over the past few years, it has been proven that workers who take a 10-grain salt tablet four to eight times a day feel more alert and can stand up to their jobs better than those who drag through the day suffering from a salt-deficiency.

Miss Loretta Lutz, Donald J. Matthews Are Married Here

Miss Loretta Lutz was united in marriage to T/5 Donald J. Matthews of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., in a ceremony performed by her father, Rev. William F. Lutz at the Salem Evangelical Lutheran church at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Lutz was dressed in a beautiful floor length white dotted chiffon and wore a lace edged finger tip veil with a net and lace head dress.

Only attendant to the bride was her sister, Miss Helen Lutz, who wore a blue sheer gown complemented by a blue flowered tiara and blue net blusher. Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Leon Matthews, Jr.

The Wedding March was played by Mrs. Henry Ottensmann, Jr., and the Recessional, "Jesus Lead Thou On" was sung by Mary Ann Ottensmann and Lois Lemke accompanied by Mrs. Ottensmann. "Today, Oh Lord, We At Thine Altar Stand," and "Oh Perfect Love" were the two solos sung by Mrs. L. Matthews, mother of the bridegroom, who was accompanied by Miss Ruth Paul.

Black sheer highlighted by a corsage of red roses was chosen by Mrs. Lutz for her daughter's wedding while Mrs. Matthews wore a black two piece dress and a red rose corsage.

Following the wedding a supper for fifteen guests was served at the Dells.

The couple left for Wisconsin Rapids, the groom's home, to spend the remainder of his furlough after which they will go to Fort Townsend, Wash. to make their home.

Miss Lutz, a graduate of Escanaba high school, attended Dr. Martin Luther college before going to the St. Paul's Lutheran school in Wisconsin Rapids where she has taught for the past three years.

Stationed at present at Fort Warden, Wash., where he is postal clerk, the groom graduated from Lincoln high school, Wisconsin Rapids.

Guests from out-of-town who attended the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Leon Matthews and son, Leon, Jr., and Mrs. Herman Ristow, all of Wisconsin Rapids; The Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Mittelstaedt and children, Beth and John, of Oshkosh, Wis.; Martin Lutz, who attends Northwestern college in Watertown, Wis.; and Mrs. Charles Hauer, Mauston, Wis.

There's A BANDIT In This Girl's Home

Inadequate and faulty lighting picks its victims young ... and the effects are usually costly to correct and long standing ... sometimes into adulthood. You can't possibly start too soon or too young to provide proper lighting ... easy to attain ... costs little to maintain!

The wonders of electricity provide better, low cost living for the asking. Just follow a few simple rules: use light bulbs of sufficiently large wattage ... avoid narrow lamp shades that confine light from reading surfaces ... keep reflectors clean and free of dust and soil ... always place a lamp near your reading chair. The amazing new comfort and less strain from following these few practical rules will amaze you and remove that "unseen-bandit" that robs young and old of good vision, from your home. Have a light bandit proof home ... by filling all lamp sockets with strong enough bulbs and keep them burning brightly for better family sight.

Right Hangers And Careful Handling Protects Clothes

Keeping your clothes in good shape depends so much upon how you hang them up in your closet, that how-to-do-it rules are worth a few minutes' review.
Slacks? Holders that clasp the waistband are the perfect hangers. If you don't have these, use safety pins to hang skirts by the waistband to the crossbars of regular hangers.
Dresses? Put these on hangers wide enough to reach from one sleeve seam to another. Adjust shoulder padding to the hanger as you would to your shoulders, and fasten the dress at the neckline.

State Planning Body To Meet In Marquette

Important recommendations concerning Great Lakes commercial fishing, the promotion of lumbering, and fuller wood-utilization will be presented to the State Planning Commission Aug. 21 at its joint meeting in Marquette with Governor Kelly and the Upper Peninsula Technical and Industrial Subcommittee Advisory to the Commission.

Meeting in Houghton July 28, the Upper Peninsula Subcommittee chairmaned by President Grover C. Dillman of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology approved progress reports and recommendations offered by its own subcommittees on commercial fishing, chairmaned by R. A. Jensen of Escanaba; forest products, which report was presented by G. H. Earle of Hermantown; recreational resources, chairmaned by George Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau; economics; mineral resources; and chemical and metallurgical processes.

Mr. Bishop read communications submitted by state legislators, private citizens, and organizations in response to a published request from the subcommittee for such views. Among these were letters from State Representative D. F. Morrison of Germfask, and the Manistique Chamber of Commerce.

Participating in the session were not only the many committee members present but also Chairman Don Weeks of the State Planning Commission and two U. S. Army Engineers, Colonels H. S. Griffin and Allison Miller. These officers described the 21 harbors of refuge, eight of them in the Upper Peninsula, to be developed for lighted craft provided that $841,000 of state or local aid can be secured along with the nearly $1,200,000 already voted by Congress. The technical and industrial subcommittee approved the recommendation of Mr. Bishop's recreational resources group that the State of Michigan be urged to grant the needed sum.

The Commercial Fishing subcommittee urged study of the need for increasing Upper Peninsula fishing facilities, fish hatcheries, by-product utilization, and the advisability of reopening all Lake Michigan waters now closed to commercial fishing.

Both the Forest Products subcommittee and that on Chemical and Metallurgical Processes stressed methods of making lumbering and the use of forest products more efficient, and of disseminating information on these matters more widely.

The Chemical Processes group further urged the establishment of an industrial consulting division as part of some agency already operating in Upper Michigan. Its aim would be to render service of a technical and economic nature to existing and potential small industries.

Despite the disturbances brought on by a major world conflict, American agriculture has been in a much sounder position than it was at any time during or after the first World War, according to H. J. Gramlich, General Agricultural Agent, of the Chicago and North Western Railway System, who spoke at a meeting at the Upper Peninsula Experiment Station on Annual Farmer's Day at Chatham yesterday.

"The American farmer," he declared, "has become a conservative individual in a period fraught with inflation, largely because of lessons learned a few months after the close of World War I. Whereas in the '20's when the nation went through the throes of inflation farmers were buying land in terms of price, today the tendency is to discount the price and think more in terms of the real value of the land."

"As a result, our rural indebtedness today is the same as it was in 1916 while the cash farm income is four times what it was in 1916. Through conservatism, farm indebtedness has been reduced and relatively few farm folks have permitted themselves thus far to get into a spot where they might be embarrassed by a radical shift in the economics of their business."

Gramlich pointed out that about forty per cent of the inflation which swept the country after World War I took place fifteen to eighteen months after the war was over. It was during this period, he said, that agriculture was wrecked, with booming markets for farm commodities and a runaway land market proving to be too much of a temptation.

"During that inflation period we were obsessed with the idea that Europe would come to us for many years to purchase food and manufactured goods," he said. "Expectations were greater than realizations, and the inevitable result of inflation came about. Today the American farmer is bringing his expectations and realizations closer together through sound thinking and sound practices."

Gramlich pointed out that agriculture has been aiding in the successful prosecution of the present war in other ways besides record production. He offered as an example the research with Waxy Maize corn, possessing starch comparable to that of tapioca. Before the war, he said, "America imported 350,000,000 pounds of tapioca annually. At the time of Pearl Harbor, the Iowa Experiment Station had 4,135 kernels of Waxy Maize hybrid corn on hand. These were planted in green houses right after Pearl Harbor and by intense methods of cultivation and multiplication enough seed was produced by Spring of 1944 to plant 16,000 acres for commercial production. Gramlich said 250,000 acres of Waxy Maize are estimated to supply the starch of this character normally imported in the form of tapioca."

ARREST GOUR FOR ASSAULT

Lathrop Man Denies The Charge, Demands Examination

Omar Gour, Rock, arrested after he pushed his wife out of their moving automobile Monday night and charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder, Thursday demanded an examination when arraigned in the Marquette municipal court.

Judge John Siegel scheduled the examination for 10:30 Monday morning, Aug. 6, and set the bond at $3,000, which Gour failed to furnish.

The offense, which took place in Turin township Marquette county, occurred about 8:45 Monday evening when Gour, 29, and his wife, Ruth, 25, were driving from McFarland toward Lathrop. Mrs. Gour is in St. Francis hospital, Escanaba, suffering from a fractured shoulder blade, abrasions on the back and legs and shock.

Acts Without Warning
The Gour's, according to the wife, were driving from McFarland when, without warning, Gour struck her in the mouth, then reached over, opened the door of their coach and pushed her out of the car. Mrs. Gour told state police that she hung onto the door handle and was dragged along the pavement as her husband, unheeding her pleas to stop, speeded up the car. Finally forced to let go, she struck the roadway and rolled while the car continued southward a short distance. Then Gour turned it around and headed north, driving past her while she was still lying on the pavement and despite her call for help. Gour continued to drive north on M-35.

Passersby took Mrs. Gour to Lathrop and state police were called to investigate. Gour had had a few beers, not more than five, at McFarland, his wife stated, but she claimed he was not drunk. Other witnesses who saw the man during the evening, preceding the incident declared he was well under the influence of intoxicants.

Mrs. Gour suggested no motive for the alleged act, unless it was that her husband was angered because his brother's girl friend had gone out with Mrs. Gour's brother, who is home on furlough from the Army. She said he mentioned it as they rode along, but that there had been no argument.

Tank Commander Pays Tribute To Sgt. Melvin Krouth

The circumstances under which Sgt. Melvin Krouth died May 14 on Okinawa are related in a letter to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Krouth, Perkins, from Sgt. Ed Kruse, who states that he was Melvin's tank commander. Sgt. Kruse wrote from a hospital July 18, a little more than two months later.

His letter: "I am Melvin's tank commander and just now found out for sure the fate of my driver and close, brother-like friend, for 38 months. There just isn't any use of me trying to tell you how sorry I am as words can never express my feelings. But I can say one thing. He was one of the bravest, swiftest and best tank driving soldiers I ever knew. He came second to no man."

"He was loved by every man in the company, he had no enemies. He was always ready to help one out at any time. He had no fear of the enemy. He would put his tank anywhere I or any of the other tank commanders asked him. We never told him to do a thing—we asked him. Melvin was that way, we didn't have to order him."

"I hope this is of some little comfort to you Mrs. Krouth. Your son did not suffer in any way—his death came instantly. We knew before hand that some of us weren't coming back. That may sound strange but when we got the order to go up on that mission I told my crew I had a funny feeling that something would happen and if they didn't want to go up to say so and I would not make them but could call back and refuse."

"Smith said, 'I'll go'; Melvin said, 'What kind of a crew you think you got?' So we took off. When we got to the place we had a little hill we had to go up on to do any good. You see, four infantry boys had been trapped there all day long. We were to escort a flame thrower up there to get these men out. Just before we went over the top I asked them if they wanted to turn back or go up. For answer Melvin yells 'Hang on' and he gunned the motor and the tank leaped up the hill. We got up and in position. That was the last I knew until I woke up in a hospital on the morning of the 16 of May."

"Just a couple days before that while sitting in our hut I was reading the Bible. Something was said about me reading the Bible. So Melvin and Smith and I had a long talk about faith in the Lord, etc., and I found out right there he trusted in God, prayed and had no fear of death or of battle. To me that meant a lot, now it means still more. The other boy was a new lad just with us two days. I knew nothing about him. I could tell you a thousand tales of victorious battles your son drove that and other tanks through that without such a driver the crew just would never of made it."

"He was very kind to animals and always had a puppy, monkey, calf or even a horse around our camp all the time."

"Your son paid the highest price for freedom of his loved. He didn't die in vain. Mrs. Krouth, there will be victory. He will live forever in the memories of not only you but by his buddies as a hero. I turned down a chance to return to the states and non-combatant duty to go back to my outfit and fight, not to avenge my fallen comrade's death but to carry on to help make sure their death won't be in vain."

Autoists Seek Use Tax Stamps But Only Few Are Available

Yesterday there was a fairly heavy demand for federal use tax stamps on the part of local motorists but there were none available at the postoffice.

A small supply of the stamps is expected today.

Hints For Gardeners

BY JOSEPH HEIRMAN
County Agricultural Agent

Slow growing tomatoes and peppers will be greatly benefited by applications of fertilizers. A common 3-12-12 or 4-12-4 applied at the rate of 4 and 5 tablespoons per plant, raked in the top soil or water will put the plants ahead another week.

Pea vines that are finished producing by now should be removed and the space in the garden planted to a fall crop of spinach, radish and lettuce.

Strawberry plants that have finished producing should be cleaned out of weeds and soil mulched around them. At this time apply 6 tablespoons of 3-12-12 or 4-12-4 fertilizer around the plants to insure good vine growth and runner production for a 1946 planting.

This is also the season of the year to clean out around the fruit trees and shrubbing and apply some manure, about a 1/2 bushel per tree. This manure should be spread under the tree out to the edge of the limbs (so called drip.) Cover this manure over with a 3 or 4 inch layer of hay or grass mulch to conserve all moisture and fertilizer effects for 1946 production of new wood.

FOREST FIRE HAZARD HIGH

No Outbreak In July; Only Small Area Burned In 1945

The danger of forest fires is extremely acute as a result of wet weather and the extended period of drought, the local conservation authorities and the U. S. Forest Service office reported yesterday.

Fire losses thus far this season, however, have been unusually low. The state conservation district reported only two small fires this season, both in June, and totaling only six and a half acres. Both fires had been caused by cigarettes. The U. S. forest ranger H. O. Nixon, reported only one fire in the federal forest, a small fire caused by a railroad engine spark, west of Manistique. No fires were reported in July.

"People are cooperating very well this year on the fire prevention program," Ranger Nixon reported. "Campers and fishermen are in the wooded areas daily, but they are very careful with cigarettes, matches and campfires. The blueberry crop is very light and the number of pickers is consequently small, which reduces the hazard from this source."

The fire hazard in midafternoon Thursday was Class 6, extremely high, in the conservation district but dropped to Class 5, in late afternoon as cooler weather arrives. The federal forest fire hazard Thursday was a high Class 5, Ranger Nixon reported.

Fire towers are being manned from 10 a. m. to eight p. m. daily and fire wardens are constantly on the alert for an outbreak. Despite the critical labor situation, an adequate organization has been established to meet any fire outbreak.

Authorities requested the public to remain on the alert when travelling through wooded or plains areas, not to toss lighted cigarettes where fires could result and to be particularly careful in extinguishing campfires.

Five local teams will leave today noon for Menominee, and a sixth team will go there tomorrow to compete in the 12th annual U. P. Softball tournament being held there over the week end. A total of 23 teams will participate in the tournament.

White Birch, Class B champions last year, will defend its title in the tournament. It will meet Peoples hotel of Escanaba in the opener, and the winner of that game should have good prospects of lasting through the tournament.

Dagenais grocery of Escanaba is the only local team entered in the Class A competition Sunday. The team will leave here at 8:30 a. m. from Ludington Motors.

Class A favorites include the Elbowtown Sluggers of Hancock, Prescotts of Menominee, Cliff Dow of Marquette and Pete-A-Lays of Iron Mountain.

Umpires named for the tournament include Isaac King, Twin City umpire in chief, as the chief arbiter for the tourney. Others are Joseph King, Joseph Frankard, Charley Kaufman, Todd Zylkowski, Kermit Kleinke, Howard Ihler, Clarence Menor and two officials from Marquette and Escanaba.

The two umpires from Escanaba will be Walter Brown and John Roman.

Commissioner Fred Klaus and deputy commissioners Paul Vargison of Marquette and F. L. Larson of Marquette, will act as the arbitration board on all protests.

Scorers named for the tournament include William McCormick, chief scorer, and Walter Bartels, Einar Martinson and Keith Pognant.

A pass-the-hat collection will be made at the finals Saturday and Sunday night to help defray tournament expenses, Klaus said.

Rally In 6th Wins For Browns, 6 to 5

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (P)—A four-run rally in the sixth inning, which drove veteran Al Smith from the mound, enabled the St. Louis Browns to open their home stand tonight with a 6 to 5 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Browns were trailing, 3 to 1, as they came up in the sixth when four hits and an error combined to provide the four-run rally.

The Sports Parade

(By NEA Service)

New York—Jimmy Johnston is in again. This time loquacious Jimmy has in tow one Archie Moore, a light heavyweight who hails originally from St. Louis, but now from Australia and all points of the compass. Jimmy never was bothered by geographical limitations.

"Moore," heralds the Boy Bandit, "stands 5-11½, is beautifully molded (Jimmy vows he doesn't mean mildewed), portrays athleticism to the core in his movements and balance. His range is distinctly of the machine-gun type. He has a reach of 76 inches and his hands seem nearer his knees than his thighs when he stands at ease."

"What has become of your other last wonder man, the Mighty Menechelli?" we asked irreverently.

"I'm glad you asked me that," replied Johnston. "The Mighty one is doing fine in the sticks. But I'm trying to match him with this Abel Cestac for the heavyweight championship of South America in Madison Square Garden. So far I'm not having much luck."

"But leave us get back to Moore. This lad had to travel almost around the world to prove he can fight. After he knocked out the best five fighters in Australia, including Fred Henneberry, the man they considered better than the late Les Darcy, and Ronnie Richards, their middle, light-heavy and heavyweight champion, Moore couldn't get a fight when he returned to the United States."

Jimmy paused for breath giving us a chance to remark that according to the record book, Archie lost in San Diego to one Shorty Hogue, who by the way, had beaten him before he left for the Land Down Under.

"The guy was sick," alibied Jimmy. "He was ill and broke and was forced to fight so he could pay the doctors and live. He retired for 18 months."

"Yeah, he's been fighting since 1937, but this year he's with me. I pick up all these . . . er, I mean boxers and rejuvenate 'em."

"Since I took over Moore he's won nine fights—six of 'em by KOs. He recently knocked out Lloyd Marshall. Now he's rated by Nat Fleischer's Ring the No. 1 light-heavyweight, right under Gus Lesnevich, the champion who's in the U. S. Coast Guard."

"The main thing I wanted to tell you is that Archie is fighting Jimmy Bivins in the Cleveland ball park on August 22. After he knocks out Bivins I'm gonna to Moore to England and pop over that new English champion, Bruce Woodcock. How can a guy with a name like that fight?"

Jimmy says he's going to develop Archie Moore into a heavyweight, and after the war is won, send him against Louis for the heavyweight title.

Archie has a long way to go. Right now his best fighting weight is about 164 pounds.

SWANSON NETS 77 IN TOURNEY

Veteran Muskegon Pro Leads State Golders With 6 Under Par

Elmer Swanson, Jr., of Escanaba, a consistently low scorer on the Escanaba golf links, shot a 77 in his first round of the Michigan Open golf tournament championship at Grand Rapids on Friday, competing in a field of 170 starters. Only 11 players, six of them amateurs, finished below par for the first round of the 72-hole medal play test.

Sam Byrd, defending champion from the Plum Hollow Golf club, Detroit, shot a 38-36—74 to tie for 21st place. Swanson took a 40 on his first nine, but cut it down to 37—one over par—for his second try.

Lee Kosten, veteran Muskegon professional, grabbed a three-stroke lead with a six-under-par 66 over the windswept fairways of the Cascade Country Club to pace the field.

Kosten, sinking three birdies on each nine without going over par on a hole, carded a 33-33—66 for the first round lead over amateur Perry Byard, Birmingham Country Club, who three-putted his way to a pair of bogeys while coming in with 35-34—69.

Bob Ackerman, Bridgman amateur; Cliff Settersen, Muskegon professional, and Eldon Briggs, Ionia professional formerly of Lansing, were a stroke back of Byard in a three-way tie for third with two-under-par 70's.

Six were deadlocked for sixth place at 71, including Chuck Kocis, winner of the 1931 state open crown and four times state amateur champion. Kocis was representing the Red Run Golf Club, Detroit.

Others in the 72 bracket were amateur C. J. Farley of Grand Rapids, the state senior champion; Orm Beaupre, professional at Detroit Plum Brook; amateur Bob Ernst of Flint; Pete Zegunis of Grand Rapids, former state public links champion; and Joe Belfore, two-time state P. G. A. king from the Country Club of Detroit.

Three Detroit professionals were tied with even par 72's—Jimmy Gantz, Byrd's assistant at Plum Hollow; Al Watrous, Oakland Hills pro who is after his sixth state open title, and Chick Rutan, Birmingham Country Club.

SAFETY EXPERT TO BE TEACHER

Prof. Neyhart Will Be On Drivers School
Faculty

Prof. Amos E. Neyhart, administrative head, Institute of Public Safety, Pennsylvania State College and a recognized leader in the field of driver training as a means of increasing highway safety, will be one of the guest instructors of a course in highway safety and driver training for Upper Peninsula high school teachers to be held at the Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, August 20-26.

Teachers from some 25 Upper Peninsula high schools are expected to enroll in the course sponsored by the college, the State Department of Public Instruction, the Michigan State Police and the Michigan State Safety Commission.

It is expected that schools sending teachers to take the course will institute similar courses in the belief that lifelong habits of skilful driving can be developed in youth through proper training in high school and that such training, if widespread, will ultimately have a tremendous effect on improving the safety and efficiency of all motor vehicle use.

Others who will be guest instructors are: Gordon H. Sheehey, director, Traffic Institute, Northwestern University; Norman C. Damon, vice president, Automotive Safety Foundation; and Milton D. Kramer, assistant director, Center for Safety Education, New York University.

Prof. Neyhart pioneered in the idea of giving youth instruction in how to drive safely. His efforts came to the attention of the American Automobile Association, which in 1935 had concluded that it should broaden its school safety patrol and elementary school traffic safety program begun years before and develop a program for junior and senior high schools. On June 1, 1936, Prof. Neyhart was for two years full-time consultant on road training for the association. He has also done considerable work in safety education of drivers of commercial highway vehicles.

News From Men In The Service

S/Sgt. Wilfred L. Miron, son of Mrs. Georgiana Miron of Flat Rock, has received a citation for meritorious service in combat during the period from April 30 to May 1, 1945, near Tarbale, Italy. "In the final assault to drive the enemy from their strategic position, an artillery battery made an amphibious landing under intense hostile fire on newly won shores of Lake Garda, despite the hazards of deadly artillery, S/Sgt. Miron, a member of this battery, remained at his post and aided greatly in setting up the howitzers in direct view of enemy emplacements. Carrying much needed ammunition and assisting in accurate firing, he contributed much to the high efficiency of his section. Later, when a second amphibious operation took his battery up the lake to establish a vital position against possible mechanized counter-attack, he continued to accomplish his duties in a meritorious manner, and distinguished himself by his contribution to the success of

S/Sgt. Miron of the howitzers in direct view of enemy emplacements. Carrying much needed ammunition and assisting in accurate firing, he contributed much to the high efficiency of his section. Later, when a second amphibious operation took his battery up the lake to establish a vital position against possible mechanized counter-attack, he continued to accomplish his duties in a meritorious manner, and distinguished himself by his contribution to the success of the mission, completed under almost continuous enemy fire. For his commendable achievements, showing a high regard for duty, and keen courage, S/Sgt. Miron has justly earned the fine respect and praise of all his associates."

His brother, S 1/c Russell P. Miron, is on duty somewhere in the Pacific with the Third Fleet, and was last heard from on March 30, this year.

Pvt. Bruce G. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Taylor of Cornell, has completed his training at Boca Raton Field, Florida, and is now hospitalized there with a hand injury.

Lowry Field, Colo.—The Army Air Forces Training Command announced that Pfc Dean E. Konnel of Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, was graduated from the Department of Armament at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo. finished the course of Bombing and Automatic Pilot Repair after months of highly technical training.

This particular course in training repairmen deals with the repair, maintenance and upkeep of two vital nerve centers of Uncle Sam's heavy and medium bomber planes. The work of the bombardier, the ship and crew, and the mission itself, hinges on the daily maintenance and check on the nerve-like controls of the Auto-Pilot, and assurance of the dead-end precision of the Bombsight depends on the delicate work of the repairmen on the ground.

Pfc. Clayton W. Farley has returned to Camp Lee, Va., after spending a ten-day furlough with his wife, the former Ellen Miron, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Georgiana Miron of Flat Rock, and visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Farley of Nahma. Pfc. Farley has been in the service for the past 40 months. He spent two years in the Aleutian Islands, returning to the States in December, 1944.

FIREMEN PICK BESSEMER

Hancock—An estimated 600 firemen of the Upper Peninsula staged a good natured onslaught on Hancock yesterday to enliven the opening day and night of the 51st annual Upper Peninsula Firemen's Association three-day convention.

The blue of the firemen's uniform was conspicuous during the early morning—many delegates arriving during the preceding night—and multiplied in numbers as new arrivals came throughout the day to join in merrymaking that was welcomed by townspeople as a pleasant diversion.

Tatrow-Murphy

A very pretty wedding was that which took place at the St. John the Baptist church Monday morning, when Miss Paulina Tatrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tatrow was united in marriage with T/5 Earl Joseph Murphy of Manistique, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Murphy. The ceremony was performed by Fr. Glen Sanford, at 9 a. m. and music was played by Mrs. William Sauer, Frank G. Tebo sang the "Ave Maria."

The bride wore a gown of white satin with lace top, train and long tapered sleeves. Her fingertip veil was arranged with a beaded coronet and she carried a bouquet of roses and sweetpeas.

Her bridesmaid, Mrs. Leona A. Rivord, wore a yellow chiffon gown and yellow shoulder length veil. Mrs. Hazel Duschene was dressed in a pink net formal gown with blue shoulder veil. Both attendants carried bouquets of roses and sweetpeas. Mothers of the bride and groom wore like dresses of flowered jersey with corsages of roses and sweet peas.

Marvin Gray and Gilbert Nelson of Manistique, both serving in the Army, attended as best man and usher.

Wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home for 23 guests, the table set in all white appointments and centered with an all white wedding cake. Mixed summer flowers were used as decorations.

For going away on the honeymoon to Miami, Florida the bride chose a two piece suit of rose color. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, graduates of Manistique and Garden high schools, will make their home in Manistique.

HOW SMART PEOPLE AND JACK BENNY LATCH ON TO THEIR MONEY

by Fred Allen

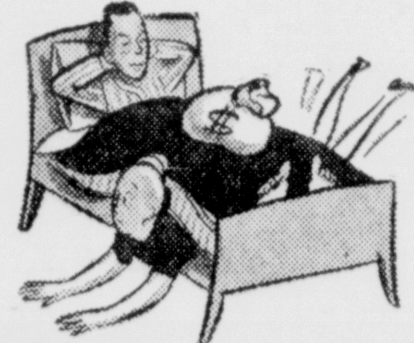

1. Smart people hang on to their money by buying War Bonds—and holding them. Jack Benny does, too. But don't let that stop you. Buy some anyway. All high-class people do this. For example, I do. Lowlifes like Benny imitate us upper-crust denizens by buying Bonds just so they can get their picture in the Police Gazette.

2. Among polite circles, it is no longer considered de rigueur to trip up the waiter or cash in your War Bonds. In these circles, in which Benny is considered a square, it is also deemed a trifle gauche—that's hog Latin for sloppy—to dunk your feet in the finger bowl. When Benny finds this out, he'll probably be so embarrassed he'll break down and start wearing shoes.

3. The boys coming back from Europe and Okinawa probably won't lope up to you breathlessly and dangle a medal around your neck for buying War Bonds, but you can bet your bottom Jap yen they won't give you the water cure, either. They know the importance of Bonds—they buy enough every month themselves to make Benny's toupee turn green.

4. The laziest way in the world to make extra money is to let those War Bonds accumulate interest. You get back 133% on your original investment in ten years. So let all your spare cash snooze away in War Bonds. If you must tuck something under your mattress, try your mother-in-law.

5. And don't think because your Aunt Crackthroat's tea leaves spelled "rat" last Sunday that the end of this war is in sight. It's not even within swooning distance. So make like Benny and pinch that penny. Or, as the farsighted zoo keeper said to the careless elephant keeper, "Till V-J day, hoard that hay!" Then, keep hoarding till the Bonds mature.
